

At Home, On Your Terms.

Quiet, private support that helps you keep living at home, on your terms.

Griswold is working with Lifeguard to provide you with a service that helps you feel safe, supported and independent at home while giving your family peace of mind and care teams additional insights into your daily wellbeing.

Just one more way to support the life you already enjoy.

Life at Home Doesn't Have to Change

Your home is where you feel most comfortable.

Your routines matter.

Lifeguard was designed to help you keep them and keep your privacy.

Using a few small plugs placed around your home, Lifeguard notices patterns of movement.

Understanding Daily Routines

You go about your day as you always do.

The plugs simply notice patterns of movement around your home.

Lifeguard helps you feel supported and connected, even between visits.

Designed Around Your Independence

Lifeguard is here to support your independence.

It's not here to change how you live.

There is nothing to wear. Nothing to charge. No buttons to press.

"My daughter worries less, which means fewer 'checking in' phone calls and more normal conversations when we talk. It gives her peace of mind, and I get to stay right here in my own home, on my own terms."

 - Martha S., 78

Your Privacy Comes First

No one sees you. No one hears you.

There are no cameras or microphones.

The plugs do not show who you are or what you're doing.

They quietly sense patterns of movement around your home.

Lifeguard looks for changes in daily patterns, providing additional information that helps support your care and independence.

There is nothing new to learn.

Just keep on living your life.

"We want to help our clients stay in their homes safely. Lifeguard gives us an extra layer of awareness between our scheduled visits without taking away anyone's privacy or independence."

- David T., Griswold Care Manager
